Aditya Chopra Told Tanishaa Mukerji To Loose Weight, She Ended Up With Hormonal Imbalance: 'Had Love Handles'

Released in 2005 under the Yash Raj Films banner, Neal 'n' Nikki remains one of Tanishaa Mukerji's biggest films. However, recently, when the actress recounted her experience of working on the film, she revealed how Aditya Chopra told her to get into better shape for her character. Tanishaa followed a rigorous diet to achieve the desired look, but it left her with a hormone imbalance.

Tanishaa, who had appeared in a few films by then, was called to Aditya Chopra's office for a screen test. In a chat with Mamaraazzi, she revealed that she had previously ignored his career advice, but this time, assured him that she would follow his instructions "blindly". She then recalled that during her first photoshoot, she was told to get toned and lose her love handles.

"My first photo session for Neal 'n' Nikki, I had all these love handles, and he was like, 'No, you can't look like this. You need to be toned.' After that first photo session, I just went crazy, and I transformed my body because I was so focused on reaching that ultimate goal, and then he was like, 'Yes, this is Nikki'," she recalled.

She revealed that she found out the exercise and diet plan that helped her get into the desired shape. She followed the routine with strict discipline. However, she pointed out that following these strict diet and workout plans can also have side effects on the body later. Tanishaa said, "If you try to keep it, you would have a hormonal imbalance, which is what happened to me."

When the film was finally released, it was met with a lot of criticism. However, Tanishaa decided to look for a positive spin. "Because I was like, 'Why did the audience feel like this?' I went back, and I saw the film. I am very objective about myself," she said. She said that while she was happy with her performance then, she now thinks that she could have been much better. "The audience has every right to criticise," she said.

Set against the picturesque backdrop of British Columbia, Canada, the story follows Gurneal "Neal" Ahluwalia, a carefree Indo-Canadian man who decides to spend 21 days enjoying his bachelor life before settling into an arranged marriage. During this journey, he repeatedly crosses paths with the impulsive and free-spirited Nikki Bakshi, leading to comic misunderstandings, attraction, and eventually romance.
