

When Anushka Sharma And Virat Kohli's Restaurant Outing In Bengaluru Ended With A Police Warning

Anushka Sharma and Virat Kohli, one of the most loved couples in town, never fail to win hearts with their adorable chemistry and unwavering support for each other. Whether through heartfelt social media moments or public appearances together, the duo continues to set major couple goals for fans across the country. Whenever they are in India, the couple also makes it a point to visit Bengaluru and indulge in some of their favourite food spots in the city. Recently, the director of Bengaluru's famous eatery, Central Tiffin Room, Ganesh Poojari, when Anushka visited them with Virat, caused a huge crowd frenzy.

In a chat with Pinkvilla Biz, Ganesh recalled that he got a call about Virat Kohli and Anushka Sharma's visit three days prior, but he thought that it was "fake." Over the next few days, he continued receiving calls from a local contact who reportedly handled VIP movements, but he still believed it was merely hype. It was only after another call came in a few hours before their arrival, followed by a final confirmation minutes before they reached the venue, that he realised the celebrity couple was actually visiting.

He said, "I got a final call saying they are actually here at the corner, and have come in two cars. I still thought it is not real and after that, two cars came outside the entrance," he shared and added that they cleared an entire floor for them. "We made them comfortable. They were with families." Ganesh further revealed that Anushka was "very good to talk to." When he asked her how she discovered the restaurant, the actress shared that she used to visit the place during her college days.

Ganesh added, "She couldn't recollect the last time. She said it was a while ago and now, 'I have come with my family and husband. We don't have time, but we have come. We have been craving for so long so we actually had to make time and we just came here." Recalling the chaos outside the restaurant when Virat Kohli and Anushka were leaving, he shared, "At that moment, outside the restaurant, the entire road was blocked, no vehicles could pass and there were people madly waiting for the couple to exit. When we opened the doors, they couldn't even get inside the car. After that, we got a call from the police station saying the next time someone like this comes, we are supposed to inform them, else a complaint would be lodged. It's something we need to follow and we didn't know it then.

But it was quite fun hosting them and it was really

Pati Patni Aur Woh Do: Sara Ali Khan, Ayushmann Khurrana Reveal If They Check Partners' Phones

Ahead of the release of Pati Patni Aur Woh Do on May 15, 2026, the team of the film sat down for a fun and candid conversation with Pinkvilla, where they opened up about modern relationship rules, red flags and green flags.

The upcoming film explores the story of a man caught between his wife and two romantic complications. During the interaction, the cast, including Sara Ali Khan, Wamiqa Gabbi, Ayushmann Khurrana and Rakul Preet Singh, along with director Mudassar Aziz, participated in a playful segment titled Love Aajkal, where they reacted to different relationship situations by raising red or green flags.

Cast Discusses Sharing Phone Passwords With Partners

One of the questions posed to the team was whether partners should share their phone or social media passwords with each other.

Ayushmann Khurrana said that sharing passwords is not necessary and every couple has their own unsaid understanding. Rakul Preet Singh, however, shared that she would not mind sharing her password with her husband, Jacky Bhagnani, if the need ever arose.

Wamiqa Gabbi had a different view. She said that everyone has a personal life and a phone is an extremely private space. According to her, giving access to passwords would mean sharing everything, which she would not be comfortable doing.

Sara Ali Khan gave a humorous take on the matter. She said that needing to show one's phone is a red flag, but if her partner refuses to show his phone, that would be an even bigger red flag. Laughing about it, she said, "I should see the phone and should have the right not to show the phone also."

Director Mudassar Aziz also weighed in, saying that he neither wants access to his partner's phone nor would he want his partner to access his.

Team Talks About Validation In Relationships

The cast was also asked whether constant validation should continue even after marriage. Rakul Preet Singh called it a red flag, indicating that too much dependence on validation may not be healthy.

Ayushmann Khurrana and Sara Ali Khan, however, felt differently. They said they would be fine offering validation to their partners, especially because actors often receive attention and praise from fans, while their partners may not experience the same if they are not from the film industry.

The conversation stayed light-hearted and chaotic, much like the film's premise, as the cast discussed how relationship expectations differ from person to person.

Pati Patni Aur Woh Do stars Ayushmann Khurrana, Sara Ali Khan, Rakul Preet Singh and Wamiqa Gabbi in lead roles. Directed by Mudassar Aziz, the film is scheduled to release in theatres on May 15, 2026.

Alia Bhatt Praises Neetu Kapoor, Riddhima Kapoor Sahni In Daadi Ki Shaadi: 'So Much Heart'

Ranbir Kapoor's sister Riddhima Kapoor Sahni recently made her Bollywood debut with Daadi Ki Shaadi, which also stars her mother Neetu Kapoor. After Aamir Khan praised the film and Riddhima's performance following a special screening, Alia Bhatt has now shared her review of the family entertainer.

On Friday, Alia took to Instagram and posted a picture with Riddhima. Praising the film, she wrote, "Left with a warm smile on my face. Twists, turns & non-stop laughter... woven into a story with so much heart, and the awkward, hilarious, lovable chaos that families are made of. @neetu54 @riddhimakapoor-sahniofficial both of you light up the screen #DaadiKiShaadi in your nearest theatres!! @ashishrmohan @kapilsharma @r_sarath_kumar @sadi-aakhateeb @tejukolhapure @deepakkdutta @hoodajitender @addymityz."

Earlier, Aamir Khan had also appreciated Daadi Ki Shaadi after attending a special screening. While speaking to the paparazzi, he praised the film's emotional appeal, humour and performances.

He said, "Bahut badia film banayi hai. Bahut hi khoobsurat family film hai jismein emotions hain, humour hai, hasi bhi aayegi aur aapke dil ko hi chu legi yeh film. Saara actors ne bahut accha kaam kiya hai, Neetu ji ne behtareen kaam kiya hai, Kapil ne lajawab kaam kiya hai. Riddhima ki pehli film hai, bahut badia kaam kiya hai, Ranbir se better kiya hai (They have made a very good film. It's a beautiful family film filled with emotions, humour and laughter, and it will truly touch your heart. All the actors have done a wonderful job. Neetu ji has delivered an outstanding performance, and Kapil has done a fantastic job. It's Riddhima's first film and she has done extremely well, even better than Ranbir."

Directed by Ashish R Mohan, Daadi Ki Shaadi features Kapil Sharma, Neetu Kapoor, Sadia Khateeb, R. Sarathkumar, Teju Kolhapure, Deepak Dutta and Riddhima Kapoor Sahni in key roles.

The film opened to mixed reviews from critics. An excerpt from Hindustan Times' review read, "Daadi Ki Shaadi manages to stay afloat largely because of its committed performances and emotional sincerity. Ultimately, it lands as a modest, watchable drama that works in parts rather than as a wholly satisfying cinematic experience."

Soha Ali Khan Recalls How Sharmila Tagore's Lung Cancer Diagnosis Brought Them Closer: 'We Were Never...'

Actress and author Soha Ali Khan recently was seen talking about a difficult time of her life when her mother and veteran star Sharmila Tagore was diagnosed with stage one lung cancer.

The actress through a Mother's Day special segment on her podcast All About Her featuring Neetu Kapoor and Riddhima Kapoor Sahni, spoke about how that tough phase brought her closer and to be more expressive with her mother.

She said, "My mother and I were never the kind to say 'I love you' to each other on the phone. In fact, when she told me she had been diagnosed with stage one lung cancer, she said it was because we don't express ourselves enough, and that we must communicate more as a family."

Soha added, "She had read a book that spoke about the importance of expressing emotions. We were never very demonstrative, you know, like some families are"

Opening up about emotional expression within families, Soha Ali Khan shared, "People from that generation also didn't really know how to express their love. Perhaps people back then were not as expressive."

Talking about Soha Ali Khan, the actress has been a part of Bollywood for almost two decades. She has delivered many hits like Rang De Basanti, Tum Mile, Khoya Khoya Chaand, Dhoondte Reh Jaoge and others.

On the personal front, Soha Ali Khan is married to actor Kunal Kemmu. The couple is blessed with a daughter Inaaya Kemmu.

Soha is also the sister of Bollywood star Saif Ali Khan and sister-in-law of Kareena Kapoor

Khan. For the uninitiated, Soha also hosts podcasts and shares a lot of informative content on her social media accounts.

The actress through her podcasts, All About Her, is often seen speaking about women's health, lifestyle changes, and different aspects of womanhood.

Gauhar revealed she cleared five rounds of auditions, and said that Danny Boyle was highly impressed with her acting skills. Despite her talent, the director felt her looks didn't fit the gritty setting of the film.
